My Dear Friend,

I received your letter last Sunday morning, and we all laughed heartily over your college warfare. It is very good of you to spare the time from these busy days of yours, to write a poor exile from home, these such interesting letters. This place grows daily more beautiful; we revel in horseback riding — driving, and the most delightful musical evenings. There is a professional violinist who assists us in making things (howl) every evening in the drawing room.

Major Esble, the manager of the "White Sulphur," a typical Southern gentleman, makes no quite as welcome as invited guests, yesterday morning he sent up the black man to knock at my door at some unearthly hour and deliver a note in which he invited me to come down to breakfast as soon as possible and go with him for a twenty mile drive over the mountains to Louisville, as he had to go on business; Oh but that was a ride, such grandeur of scenery, I shall never forget the delight of it.

I only state this to show you the nature of our kind host, he has given us numerous horse back riding excursions at his own expense. and indeed there seems no limit to his generosity.

However, we are contemplating a permanence of our pilgrimage, next Wed. June 1st in the direction of Nantuxet Island — Mass.

which is indeed the loveliest place in the world. When do you return home? or is it undecided as yet? I am so glad you are quite well again it does not fail to draw so heavily on your reserve forces, but I must bid you tonight — — — so — — —

I read this discussion about the World's Fair Sunday — simply terrible? I cannot but believe the right will win: it makes me feel a perfect loathing for that wicked city, to think that the authorities dare attempt such a thing. — The papers keep one at a white heat all the time.

Have you read any of the speeches made at the Woman's Congress.
They are magnificent some of them.
Papa is a strong woman's rights man you know, and is rejoicing in these splendid statements of truth, by some of the ablest minds of the century. Now I must close as the Professor has just come and wants music.

Adieu Your friend
